

GIANT SWORDFERN aka MACHO FERN

Nephrolepis biserrata 'Macho'

A spectacular addition of lustrous green foliage to any garden, the Macho Fern prefers a shady site beneath a high canopy of trees. Hardy in the Jacksonville area to 28 degrees F., it is quite drought tolerant once established. It is a vigorous spreader but can easily be kept in check by removing or potting up off-shoot plants. To achieve a very impressive mass, plant one-gallon sized plants no closer than 3 ft apart.
